3. The purpose of and grounds for personal data processing

Fingrid processes personal data for recruitment purposes. The purpose is to manage Fingrid's external and internal recruitment. The register covers the processing, storage and communication to applicants of the receipt of applications arriving for open, targeted and internal recruitment. The data is processed confidentially and used only for filling vacant positions.

The legal basis for processing is consent.

4. Personal data to be processed

Recruitment:

- basic information such as name, contact details
- work experience
- education and the qualifications of the applicant
- credit information
- possible results of drug tests and security screenings
- possible job-specific suitability assessments

- additional information concerning the progress of and selection for the recruitment process
- other information voluntarily entered by the employee
- the result of a pre-employment examination

5. Regular data sources

Data is mainly obtained from the data subject him/herself.

In addition to this, data may also be obtained from recruitment partners, suitability assessments, credit information registers and authorities such as the police.

6. Regular assignments of data

Personal data may be assigned to recruitment partners as part of the recruitment process. Personal data is not assigned without the knowledge of the data subject.

7. The transfer of data outside the EU or EEA

Data in a register may be transferred outside the area of member states of the European Union or the European Economic Area, if this is necessary from a perspective of the technical execution of the data processing. In that case, the transfer of the data complies with the requirements stipulated in the EU Data Protection Regulation.

8. The time for processing data

Data is kept during the recruitment process or for a period of time selected by the person him/herself (max. 12 months).

9. Rights of the data subject

A data subject is entitled to ask the registrar for access to personal data concerning him/herself, and has the right to request the correction of his/her personal data, the limiting of its processing or the deletion of the personal data.

A data subject also has the right to receive the personal data that he/she has given about him/herself in widely used machine-readable form, and has the right to transfer such data to another registrar. If technically possible, a data subject is entitled to have his/her personal data transferred directly from one registrar to another.

A data subject may use his/her rights by contacting:
